Scott Gray

Artist Scott Gray began wood carving while serving as an Airborne Ranger, Special Forces (Green Beret) during Desert Shield/Desert Storm. To pass the time, he pulled a board from a supply pallet and carved his team name and number for his base camp tent. Scott realized that no matter where he went, he always had a knife and all he needed was some wood to create something. What Scott sees as he begins determines the type of wood, thickness, and size dimensions of each piece. Scott and his wife live south of Ottumwa on an acreage with a wood shop, surrounded by many horses and trees.
